

Microsoft Office SharePoint Server 2007

SharePoint allows you to efficiently connect your employees, processes and business information. It provides a flexible, highly scalable architecture to support intranet, extranet and Internet sites while reducing IT's administrative burden. It also integrates office applications, allowing workers to share information easily and securely, and personalizes its delivery to improve its value. The platform enables fluid communication of information across your business and to your various audiences.

The Catapult Benefit

Understanding the unique needs of your organization takes a partner that listens to your requirements and draws upon its experience to determine the best solution for your enterprise. SharePoint 2007 has an extremely broad set of out-of-the-box capabilities. A SharePoint expert's implementation experience is crucial to leveraging the available feature set in order to limit custom development, allowing you to achieve your goals quickly.

We provide end-to-end SharePoint services, including:

- Solution Strategy
- Branding
- Information Architecture and Usability
- Application Design and Implementation
- Infrastructure Architecture and Deployment
- Product Configuration and Implementation
- Custom Components and Integration
- Content Migration
- Site Upgrades
- Organizational Readiness and Training

Catapult uses a proven delivery approach during all of our SharePoint engagements, mitigating project risk by delivering the project on-time and on-budget. Catapult is the only Microsoft partner to have developed a tailored solution for upgrading SharePoint that includes a methodology and Web Parts to help users transition to the new system.

Catapult's SharePoint implementation experience enables solutions such as:

- Executive Reporting Portals

These Catapult capabilities help you make the most of the broad scope of features SharePoint offers.

SharePoint Features

At SharePoint's core are its Platform Services, which serves as a single platform to provide consistent security, site management and topology. And Portals serve as the access point, providing a pathway to the capabilities SharePoint offers:

- Collaboration – Productivity is improved when your organization works together effectively, sharing information. SharePoint provides a way to author, review and approve documents and publish them into a centralized, cataloged repository.
- People and Personalization – Personalized portal content targeted to specific users or user groups improves the user experience and increases adoption rates. SharePoint provides personalized, customizable home pages, content targeting and the ability to find people within your organization.
- Enterprise Search – Your employees must be able to locate information quickly to do their jobs effectively. SharePoint provides an enterprise search engine that delivers highly relevant results regardless of the content's type or location.
- Enterprise Content Management - Your users leverage a vast amount of information to work collaboratively, while protecting sensitive data. SharePoint's ECM features bring structure out of the chaos of information overload, by extending content management to every user through integration with familiar tools like Office.
- Business Processes and Forms – Electronic business forms improve the efficiency and accuracy of collecting data. SharePoint's business forms solution enables information to be validated and easily integrated into backend systems.
- Business Intelligence – Your decision makers require access to, sharing and analysis of up-to-date information in order to make the best decisions possible. SharePoint improves the gathering and sharing of business intelligence through server-based Excel spreadsheets, data visualization, a report center, key performance indicators and dashboards.
